Shattered City in Japan Rocked by New Earthquake

THOUSANDS DEAD and tens of thousands homeless is the toll of the havoc-wreaking earthquake and tidal wave which smashed across western Honshu, Japan's mainland. Worst hit cities are Fukui (1), city of 75,000 virtually wiped out; Daishoji (2), an estimated 600 casualties, 3,000 homeless; Kanazawa (3), residents sleeping in streets, fearing to return to wrecked homes. (International)

FUKUI, Japan, June 29—(AP)—The shattered Fukui area felt new earth tremors tonight. Military government officers estimated Monday's earthquake casualties would mount to 2,500 dead and injured Japanese.

No new damage was reported. All Americans in the stricken area escaped serious injury but a number were bruised and burned slightly.

American relief reached the quake scene to aid the injured and homeless.

Military government officers said 200 children were crushed to death when a motion picture theater collapsed in the first shock. Their bodies have been recovered. At a school 22 more children and two adults were reported crushed.

Maj. Gen. Joseph W. Swing U. S. Army First Corps commander, returned to Kyoto from Fukui and said he doubted the death list for the whole stricken area would exceed 300 but the total injured may eventually reach 5,000. He said there was no evidence of any tidal waves striking the shore from the Sea of Japan.

The governor of Fukui prefecture estimated 3,155 were killed in the violent quake. (The Tokyo newspaper Asahi gave the number of dead and injured in the prefecture as 16,000. It reported 300,000 homeless.)

Americans here who went through the quake said it was almost as if Fukui, which was leveled by superforce late in the war, was hit by an atom bomb. The city of 85,000 is heavily damaged. The first tremors burst water mains. Fires flashed but Americans and Japanese were helpless before the flames without water.

Half the city, rebuilt wooden houses and structures, went down in the first tremor or so. Ninety-five percent of what was left was burned and scorched and turned into rubble.

A few of the Americans here suffered minor injuries—mostly cuts, bruises and burns. Many lost their possessions.

Military personnel, totalling 17 officers, 17 enlisted men and two civilians, fought valiantly throughout the night and day to help the suffering Japanese.

Flames still seared their faces as they led the Japanese to safety on the edge of the ravaged town. Black marketeers set up stalls on the streets in the midst of earthquake and fire damage.

They offered: Three small rice balls for 50 yen ($1), one watermelon, 350 yen ($7), bottle of beer, 250 yen ($5), one apple, 20 yen (40 cents), ice confections, 20 yen.

The prices were about double the market prices in Tokyo.

ANOTHER RECORDED

CLEVELAND, June 29—(AP)—John Carroll University said today its seismograph had recorded another strong earthquake in the vicinity of yesterday's destructive quake in Japan.

The first wave was recorded at 5:42:25 A. M. (EST) and the second at 5:53:02 A. M.

The quake apparently was an "after shock" of yesterday's tremor, the school said.

CRACK IN RED BLOC WIDENING

Child-Beating Charge Faced

Woman Evangelist Runs Afoul Law

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 29—(AP)—A prosecution witness said in court here that Mrs. Hazel Smith, women evangelist, once promised to dip her handkerchief in the blood of her six-year-old daughter, Bobbie.

The witness, Mrs. Hugh Power, appeared yesterday at a hearing before Judge Solon M. Davis, who bound Mrs. Smith over to county court on four charges of cruelty. Mrs. Power said she and Mrs. Smith were discussing methods of curbing children when the former pupil of Aimee Semple McPherson promised to dip her handkerchief in Bobbie's blood to prove she had beaten the child.

After the hearing Mrs. Smith was freed under a $1,000 bond. Four other charges of assault and battery against her were dropped. Another witness, Mrs. Naomi Leonard, school teacher, testified Bobbie was not an unruly child in classes although the small child often appeared with bruises about the head and face.

Dr. Ben Jenkins, city physician, testified that when he examined Bobbie June 13, the day of Mrs. Smith's arrest, the child had multiple bruises on her back and infected burns on her body and feet.

Mrs. Smith is evangelist at the Foursquare Gospel Church here.

Mass Resignation Threat Hits Capital

COLUMBUS, June 29—(AP)—A threat of mass police and fire department resignations over more money still faced Columbus today despite council approval of an allowance for uniforms.

Councilmen voted the allowance last night, but refused to take any action on demands for a flat $50 monthly pay increase.

Ninety-four of 277 city firemen and 84 of 303 police officers threatened Saturday to resign July 8 unless they received uniform allowances and the $50 monthly wage hike. There are 193 total vacancies in the departments.

Fire Chief Walter G. Strickland said he would declare a public emergency if there were wholesale resignations. He said this would allow him to set up a working schedule of 24 hours on duty and 24 hours off, instead of the present 8-hour day, 40-hour week.

The $50-a-month increase was described as "impossible" by Council President Joseph R. Jones.

Abortionist Sentenced

ALLIANCE, June 29—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Luginbuhl, 50, must serve one to seven years in Marysville Reformatory for performing an abortion. She pleaded guilty to the charge in common pleas court in Canton yesterday.

Jet Plane Engines

To Be Made in Ohio

LYNN, Mass. June 29—(AP)—General Electric Co. said today it expected to begin production of jet aircraft engines by the end of the year at its newly leased Lockland, O., plant.

GE announced yesterday it had secured the 700,000 square foot North War Plant at Lockland, near Cincinnati. H. D. Kelsey, manager of the Aircraft Gas Turbine division here, said the Ohio plant will employ more than 2,000 at peak production and will enable GE to triple its output for the U. S. Air Force.

'Miss Wheeling' Enters Competition Over Stern Warning from Bishop

WHEELING, W. Va., June 29—(AP)—An 18-year-old girl who defied a threat of expulsion from the Catholic Church is "Miss Wheeling" today.

Competing against six other girls last night, Miss Mariruth Ford won the right to compete for a $2,000 scholarship and the title of "Miss West Virginia" in a state-wide contest to be held in Moundsville in August. The state winner will enter the Miss America contest in Atlantic City.

Two girls withdrew from the contest when Bishop John J. Swirtz of Wheeling said he would excommunicate any Catholic girl who participated.

The bishop last week protested the "indecent exposure" of girls' bodies in "totally pagan" beauty pageants, and said: "How any girl can submit herself to that ordeal is beyond me."

The winner's father, a grocer here, said it was "just a case of the church having one view and the parents another."

Miss Ford, who hopes to become an actress, weighs 109 pounds, is five feet three inches tall, and has light brown hair and green eyes.

In the course of her competition she appeared both in a one-piece bathing suit and in a full-skirted evening gown, and enacted part of a scene from the movie "Dark Victory."

WASHINGTON, June 29—(AP)—The United States air force, which some day may need quick reinforcement in Europe, will send 16 jet fighters off on an exploratory transatlantic flight next week.

The mission of the trip, said a USAF announcement today, is "to determine the feasibility of ferrying jet-propelled combat aircraft over the route, study the logistical and operational problems involved" and get in some limited training overseas.

Tuberculosis Vaccinations Begun In Four Ohio Welfare Institutions

COLUMBUS, June 29—(AP)—A vaccine campaign for immunity against tuberculosis began today among 11,500 inmates of four state welfare institutions.

The 11,500 inmates in the Columbus area will be the first subjected to the tests. They are in the Columbus State School, the Columbus State Hospital, the Columbus State Penitentiary and the Offit State School.

Plans for the program have been under way for several months, with the state welfare department, the state health department and the United States public health service cooperating.

Drive Revived For Eisenhower

Elliott Roosevelt Says He Will Accept

(By the Associated Press) Anti-Truman Democrats pounded their Eisenhower-for-president drums with fresh vigor today.

Elliott Roosevelt set off the parade by disclosing a new letter from the general which he said made him optimistic Eisenhower could not refuse "a true draft movement" at the Democratic National Convention.

The son of the late president read the letter last night at a New York rally sponsored by the Americans for Democratic action. He said it was written June 15 to Leslie E. Schwartz, an ADA official. The letter said:

"When I made a public statement last January referring to a possible political career, I did it only after earnest study to determine the field I might possibly be of some future usefulness."

"I am anxious to do my duty but felt it was my own problem to determine whether or not a sense of duty would call me into the political field."

It was last January that Eisenhower, now president of Columbia University, silenced a similar effort by some Republicans to stir a draft move at the GOP convention. Since then he has repeatedly reaffirmed that position.

But Senator J. Howard McGrath (D-R) told a New York news conference last night he does not "regard General Eisenhower as a candidate." The National Democratic party chairman added that he expects President Truman to be nominated on the first ballot at the Philadelphia sessions opening July 12.

McGrath said he doesn't "look for any difficulty with the delegates from the southern states."

District of Columbia Democrats, however, showed a sharp division of opinion in their primary balloting yesterday. Only 471 votes were recorded, and while Mr. Truman won the six-vote delegation by a 236 tally Eisenhower piled up 181 write-in votes.

Mine Union Under Fire

WASHINGTON, June 29—(AP)—Robert N. Denham National Labor Relations Board General Counsel, issued an unfail practice complaint today against district 31 of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers of America.

Denham charged that UMW members obstructed entrances of four West Virginia coal mines and refused to let non-union workers come up from underground until they signed UMW membership cards.

The incident occurred during the six-week mine shutdown over the miners' pension dispute in March.

Polio Strikes Six In Same Family

CLEVELAND, June 29—(AP)—Infantile paralysis struck six of Oscar Ray's eight children yesterday.

Hospitalized were Lois, 14; Geraldine, 10; Eleanor, 8; Thomas, 5; James, 3; and Nellie, 22 months. Harold J. Knapp, health commissioner, said the other Ray children, Eugene, 16, and Oscar, Jr., 12, were under observation at home.

Henry H. Sweeney, 35, a Lakewood salesman, also was stricken with polio yesterday, boosting the Cuyahoga County total to 10. There were only three cases in the county at this time last year.

Pay-off of Aid Plan In Yugoslavia Hinted As Heat Put on Tito

Blockade of Berlin Eased by Russians To Permit Some Travel - But Not Food; Reports that 'Tito' 'Purged' Unfounded

(By the Associated Press) The multibillion dollar Marshall Plan appeared today to be one of the hidden causes for the startling breach between Yugoslavia and Russia's Communist empire in eastern Europe.

The Cominform blast at Premier Marshal Tito listed high among its criticisms that the Balkan dictator was leaning toward the west.

Economic sources close to the European Recovery Program in Italy said it is "more than likely that worsening economic conditions and a very strong desire by many Yugoslav circles to receive Marshall Plan benefits contributed to the breach between Tito and Moscow."

Similar expressions sounded in newspapers scattered through the non-Communist parts of Europe.

Italy and Ireland signed Marshall Plan agreements yesterday.

The Communist party in Belgrade said it will issue a statement in reply to the 3,000 words of vituperation uttered by the Cominform.

The Italian radio said martial law had been declared in Yugoslavia but this was denied in Belgrade.

The opinion in Prague was that the Cominform had told Tito: "You have done wrong. Confess and do (Please turn to Page Two)"

Taxi Drivers Capture Thief

COLUMBUS, June 29—(AP)—More than 20 Columbus taxi drivers formed a "posse" in the wild west manner early today and captured a man sought for beating a cab driver and stealing his vehicle. Homer Grimm, 34, a cab driver, was beaten over the head with a bottle by a passenger he had picked up at 2 P. M. The man forced the driver from the cab and drove away.

The alarm went out to other drivers over the taxi firm's radio system, and 20 drivers took up the chase cornering the stolen cab and "boxing" it in at a downtown intersection. The driver of the stolen cab, who gave his name as Glen Smales, 45, did not argue further. He surrendered to police who by that time had arrived on the scene.

The man was held for investigation of armed robbery. He told police he took the cab because he "wanted to go to jail."

Two of Fugitives Are Soon Captured

FREMONT, June 29—(AP)—Two of five trustees who escaped yesterday from the Osborne honor camp of the Mansfield Reformatory were back in police custody today.

The two, Harry Donahue, 18, and Jack McFarland, 19, walked into police headquarters last night and surrendered.

Donahue was sentenced to the reformatory from Mahoning County for breaking and entering, and larceny, and McFarland from Union County for auto theft.

How Romantic!

OXFORD, June 29—(AP)—If a boy kisses a girl good night it doesn't necessarily mean he wants to marry her, or even go steady, a Columbus minister told Hi-Y Congress delegates last night.

"It may be that he is just lonesome and for the moment you (the girl) represents his mother to him," said Dr. Roy Burkhardt, pastor of the First Community Church of Columbus.

"With some folks," he continued, "a good night kiss is just a habit and doesn't have much meaning beyond that."

Record-Herald Plant Thrown Open to Public

Hundreds Tour Building to See How Their Daily Newspaper Is Produced

Friends of the Record-Herald came and saw Monday evening how their newspaper is produced.

There were more than 350 people present at the open house. They started their tour of the plant in the new, streamlined business office, where their names were taken by members of the office staff. When the visitors went to the composing room they saw their names set in type for today's Record-Herald.

Printers showed how pages are made up, how advertisements are prepared, how "mats" are rolled and semi-cylindrical page plates are poured from molten metal.

Then they saw the impressive giant of the Record-Herald plant -- the 32-page rotary press rolling several thousand copies of the Monday Record-Herald.

The job printing plant's several presses and other equipment were operating. Pads prepared in the job shop were distributed to visitors, along with souvenir pencils and booklets explaining the intricacies of newspaper production.

In the news room, the Associated Press teletypes were the center of attention. Visitors also saw the "city room" where local news is prepared, and viewed old Herald and Record Republican front pages telling of President's Taft's nomination in 1912, the U. S. entry in the World War in 1917 and the Coolidge victory of 1924. The first issue of the Record-Herald, February 3, 1937, was on display.

Upstairs, lemonade and sandwiches were served to all visitors.

Among those present for the open house included W. J. Galvin, president, and Wayne W. Galvin, secretary-treasurer of the Washington News Publishing Company, publisher of the Record-Herald.

Staff members of two other Galvin newspapers, the Wilmington News-Journal and the Circleville Herald, also were present.

One Record-Herald staff member declared the open house was "successful because we saw so many people we don't ever get a chance to see in our everyday work in getting out the paper—and those people seemed to be genuinely interested in how their paper is put out."

Among the visitors to the open house were: Mrs. Rose Mitchell, Harrison Nelson, Bloomington; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence DeWees, Jack Pavey, Mrs. Heber McCoy, Mrs. Mabel Parrett, Utric Acton, Wayne Galvin, Lima, Ohio, D. F. Strong, David Whiteside, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dunn, Miss Golda Baughn, Miss Blanche McCord, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cline, Dean Fahr, M. C. (Please turn to Page Five)

Questions on Draft Answered by Army

WASHINGTON, June 29—(AP)—Here are some questions put to the army about the draft and army's answers, in whole or in part:

Can selectees volunteer for the regular army?

Each selectee will be encouraged to enlist in the regular military establishment at any time after he has entered service by induction. The emphasis should be on securing enlistments for the longest term possible.

Are selectees going to be trained separately or are they going to be mixed together with the regular outfits?

Selectees will not be trained separately, but will be trained with and in the same manner as volunteers.

How long will men be trained before they are sent overseas?

It is anticipated that no enlisted personnel will be sent overseas without having a minimum of eight weeks' basic training.

Will primary emphasis be on training for fighting or for occupation duty?

Fighting. The whole training doctrine of the army is to develop a trained soldier capable of performing efficiently his primary mission in combat.

Will the selectees be trained in accordance with universal military training plan or like regular army volunteers? (Congress has not approved a UMT plan, proposed by the army).

The selectee will be trained like the regular army volunteer however, the present plan contemplates an eight weeks basic training course temporarily until units of the army have been properly filled, after which the usual twelve or thirteen weeks program will obtain. Furthermore, some of the principles developed in the experimental unit at Fort Knox have been and will be incorporated in regular army training program.

Will women be drafted?

No.

Will army draftees be able to transfer to the air force or navy if they want to?

No, and vice versa.

Will we have a "broomstick" army?

No. Adequate material is available to train new personnel.

Is adequate housing available?

Mobilization-type World War II buildings will be utilized to house trainees. We have relatively few funds with which to dress them up, but by concentrating our expenditures on the essentials, we will be able to provide year-round basic comfort. Luxury is out of the question.

Will he be given a job commensurate with his abilities? Will he be able to continue his civilian occupation in the army?

In instances where he has a skill readily convertible to an army job and assuming he is sufficiently well qualified therein, normally he will be selected for that type of assignment. In this respect, however, the needs of the service must govern.

What steps are being taken to utilize newly trained men after they finish their 21 months of service?

The bill provides for the transfer of each individual to a reserve component upon completion of a normal tour of service by induction.

Will the draftee be stationed near home?

In general personnel being inducted from civil life will be ordered to the training division nearest his home. However, upon completion of basic training in either the training division or in units an enlisted man inducted under selective service will become available for army-wide assignment and will be assigned to the army area where the greatest need for his service exists.

Will he have to serve overseas?

He will be available for world wide assignment. This does not, of course, apply to the 18-year-old volunteers.

How often can he come home?

How ill be authorized the same leave as officers and enlisted men of the regular army—thirty days a year. He probably will have little opportunity during his basic training to go home. During the remainder of the year, within training requirements, furloughs up to thirty days each year are authorized.

What about his disrupted education?

The army has an education program now functioning which will enable the draftee to continue his formal studies on off-duty time. There will be educational courses available to him which will fit directly into his educational plans for the future and which are, in general, accredited by civilian educational institutions.

Will parents of selectees be able to visit on the post where their son is stationed?

In the World War II program the army provided guest houses operated by the post exchange for this purpose. These facilities will be reopened within the limits of resources at re-activated training centers and will be available at nominal charges. Feeding facilities will be available through service club cafeterias.

Will Communists be drafted?

There is no provision in the law for excluding Communists.

What about the courts-martial system?

There is no peculiar court-martial system applicable to the inductees. They will be subject to the articles of war as are all other members of the military establishment.

Will selectees be entitled to veterans benefits as the "GI Bill" provided for World War II vets?

The "G. I. Bill" does not apply to those entering the army after 25 July 1947. Under present legislation, the selectee who has completed his term of service in a satisfactory manner will be entitled to very liberal reemployment benefits.

What about race segregation?

Our policy must continue to be the employment of Negro troops units of appropriate size and conformation in the best interests of overall efficiency. There will be equality of opportunity and lack of discrimination between races.

Will inductees be given airborne training unless they volunteer for service in an airborne unit.

Friend for Washington C. H. Made by Cafe Man, Waitress

A restaurant owner who opened his cafe after hours and a waitress who "knew the answers" made a fast friend for Washington C. H. of a traveling man recently.

The traveler, Walter L. Hales of Orange, Mass., was enroute to visit a daughter in Oklahoma.

He registered in a Washington C. H. hotel, then went across the street for some supper. The Main Restaurant was closing for the night but the proprietor, John Schoonover, opened up to let Hales have his much-needed rest.

Hales was curious—as are all travelers—about the "C. H." on the end of Washington. He asked Ethel Ellis, the waitress.

Mrs. Ellis knew where to find the answers. She showed Hales the blue section of the telephone directory, which gives a brief history of the city and its name.

And the next morning, Mrs. Ellis had a copy of the Chamber of Commerce booklet on the city waiting for Hales when he went in for breakfast.

Hales was impressed with the friendliness and helpfulness of Schoonover and Mrs. Ellis. So he wrote this letter (on the back of a torn-open envelope) to the Chamber of Commerce:

"I've wondered for a long time what the C. H. meant after your city of Washington.

"I was in the 'Main Diner' and when I asked the question the waitress handed me the phone book and at last the mystery was exposed and I think it is just dandy for you to insert the history of your fine city in the phone book. It's too bad more towns and cities do not have the civic pride Washington C. H. has.

"I'm on my way to visit my daughter at Oklahoma A & M. and I'm sorry I cannot again enjoy the hospitality of Washington C. H. on my return trip as we have a different route home.

"But I assure you I won't forget."

Lead Plumb Bob From Naval Plane

A two-pound lead plumb bob and 220 feet of coppered wire, found on the Louis Parrett farm on the Chillicothe road, recently, where the leaden weight had penetrated the ground for 16 inches, fell from a Navy aircraft, according to Lieut. Col. Francis J. Henggeler, commanding officer of the All Weather Flying Center, Clinton County Air Force Base, USAF.

In a letter received by the Record-Herald, Col. Henggeler states that after a full investigation it was found that the aircraft antenna was used upon certain types

Drill Down 130 Feet at Present

At the present time the drill in the well being put down in the sidewalk in front of The Washington C. H. Candy Company's plant on South Main Street, is now around 130 feet and the bit is cutting through the Niagara limestone, which was struck at a depth of 98 feet 6 inches, or a little deeper than it is usually found under the city.

The limestone encountered is typical of the Niagara strata, and the drill will be sent down to 180 to 200 feet in an effort to bring in an abundant supply of water. So far the flow of water has been light.

Man Is Bound Over With Bond $1,000

Clare E. Hyer, the man who purchased a motorcycle at the Warner Service Station, and gave a check for $850, which promptly bounced back because Hyer had no funds in the bank, is now in the Fayette County jail with bond fixed at $1,000 after he pleaded guilty to a charge of issuing a worthless check.

Hyer was taken before Justice of the Peace George Worrell, and readily admitted his guilt.

The motorcycle involved in the case was recovered.

Oil Big Factor In Palestine Controversy

Even the interminable debate over U. S.-U. S. S. R. relations hasn't been able to obscure the Palestine problem. The once-quiet Holy Land, which used to seem almost as remote as another planet to most Americans, is now at the core of the world's difficulties. The warfare which is going on there is not a localized contest between the Jews and the Arabs. It has an ominously direct bearing on the prospects for world peace, and for world economic rehabilitation.

The most startling development in the Palestine crisis was President Truman's recognition of the Jewish state, Israel. Israel is a tiny and poor country, and its population is under a million. It cannot sustain itself. Truman's recognition was given with almost unprecedented suddenness—Israel's government was not even completely organized. There are grounds for believing that he acted against the advice of some top state department officials. And one result of that action was to create the first serious cleavage between us and England.

Britain, once more or less neutral when it came to Jew-Arab differences, has been supporting the Arabs for a considerable time. She has supplied the Arabian states with arms and other supplies, and her position is unequivocal. It is now common knowledge that our recognition of Israel, which, in effect, aligned us against England, caused shock followed by rage in Britain's Foreign Office. On the other hand it seemed to please the Soviet Union which is now standing on the sidelines with a watchful eye on Middle East oil.

Oil, of course, is what gives the Jew-Arab war its worldwide significance. Of the world's known oil reserves, according to a United States News & World Report summing up, the Middle East has more than 27 billion barrels out of a total of 67 billion. All the plans for world recovery, including our ERP are based on putting this oil to use. British and U. S. oil companies and to a lesser extent, the French, have been carrying on intensive development of the fields, building pipelines, etc. The war has imperiled this work. In some sections construction has been halted entirely, and the danger of destruction of facilities which have been built is intense.

It is thus to the interest of all the western powers to bring hostilities to a halt as soon as possible. But, in spite of occasional truces, no workable program, acceptable to both Arabs and Jews, has been offered. The two races now apparently feel a burning hatred for each other. Both sides regard the conflict as a holy war, with all the fanaticism and passionate purpose that engenders.

The Arabs have an enormous advantage in numbers and land area. However, according to military observers, they are temperamentally unsuited to modern organized warfare. The Jews, on the other hand, have shown a definite talent for organization. Their army and their underground are led by men with combat experience. They seem to be well supplied with weapons, and they are schooled in guerrilla tactics. So they have held their own.

Just how conflicting U. S. and British policy in Palestine can be reconciled, and how a peace may be secured, is the great question. The crystal ball is clouded now. But everyone is agreed that peace must be gained if the world is to have the vital Middle Eastern oil, and the Western powers' plans for world rehabilitation are to go through.

For free entertainment to bystanders it is hard to equal the value of two cars involved in a minor accident.

This is the time of year when the garden hose reigns supreme, though its glories have never been adequately appreciated.

Far too many things in this world are deplored as "not what they used to be", when they're probably much better.

To Victims of War Go Spoils

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK. — (AP) — Ghosts have no daylight voices.

And so there is no way to say what ghosts were present in the crowds that last week attended one of the weirdest auctions in history.

It was a sale that reversed the dictum that in war the spoils belong to the victors. It was a sale to see that some of the spoils of the second world war went to the victims.

Up for auction was a small portion of many tons of Nazi loot seized in Germany and Austria and brought here. It will be sold over a period of months and the proceeds used to resettle and rehabilitate European displaced persons.

The first batch of loot put on the block last week contained 828 lots and brought $188,435. This was 20 percent more than its value as estimated in advance. It consisted of jewelry, expensive household wares and artistic bric-a-brac that couldn't be identified and returned to the original owners.

Many long since had been put to death in the gas pits at Dachau and robbed even of the gold in their teeth. Others had passed through the one-way portals of the concentration camp at Buchenwald, the earthly hell where Nazi guards greeted incoming prisoners with the macabre jest: "Abandon all hope ye who enter here."

The Nazi booty was brought here because this is the only land with cash to pay for it—cash to help the rootless victims of distress still encamped in Germany. In the minds of successful bidders as the auctioneer's hammer crashed down to end each sale there must have been a wonder: Whom had the piece he just bought belonged to? What woman in what country had lingered after dinner under the soft light shed by "lot 260, two pairs of repousse silver candlesticks?" Did she worry that her prized candlesticks had "some impressions"—as the sale catalog bluntly said?

What wealthy housewife had lived interior that some guest would chip a plate in her 24-piece herend porcelain table service? It sold here for $1,300. What kind of tableware did she eat off in her own last hours? At Buchenwald there was only a bowl.

Who had teased whom for what vanished moments of personal good fortune in the sixteen tinted glass bottles of "lot 272? New people in a country an ocean away now will drink white wine from them.

Behind each lot as it came up was a story of some forgotten hour or lifetime of pleasure. Perhaps many lifetimes—for a large number of the items were antique. But those stories will never be known. Nothing is as anonymous as the treasures of broken households put up at auction in a strange place under the eyes of impersonal buyers.

The polished silver showed no reflection of the happiness it brought to other owners in another day. Nor did it reflect the panic fear that came with the midnight knock of the Nazi at the door.

In the biggest sale of the week one man paid $4,350 for four snuff boxes. These trinkets of an elder day must have been the joy of some old-world collectors. And the man who forked out the $4,350 to get them must have been pleased his money went to a good cause.

It is doubtful, however, whether, he enjoyed paying the 20 percent excise to help one person who has never been displaced—Uncle Sam. For $870 he could have put a lot of snuff in those boxes.

Convention Short of Sincerity

By George E. Sokolsky

The convention device is too primitive to be of continued value. Certainly, the business of selecting a president of the United States ought to be a more serious business, a more sober procedure. Jiggling girls, prancing on the rostrum, hired kids shouting from the balconies, milling men and women who managed to get tickets but representing nothing do not present a picture of calm deliberation.

The various committees of arrangements in the future ought to set up rules which prevent candidates from filling the galleries with so-called "youths" who are there to cheer and boo and act like fools and hoodlums. There was not one spontaneous ovation and demonstration when any candidate was nominated, nor were all or even most who milled about on the floor delegates. The kids were given assistant sergeant-at-arms badges to get in and plenty got in without any badges or any tickets.

Fun is fun, but a convention to select a president is neither a circus nor a vaudeville show—and all this juvenile stuff ought to cease forthwith and forever. And another disgrace is the agreement by which the convention prolonged and dragged out to make it last long enough to satisfy the merchants and hotel keepers who put up some money to bring the show to their town. All the doings at the Republican convention could have been over on Wednesday if the business had been efficiently managed. But it was permitted to drag and drag endlessly.

Joe Martin may be a wonderful speaker of the House of Representatives but he could not keep this convention in order and moving, probably because it had to waste time to please the hotels. Also, Joe must have had a love for the demonstrations because he let them continue long after they were well over.

Unless you have seen these ovations, you cannot imagine how silly they are. Men and women walk about with their candidate's name or singing his theme song. The voice of the sewer at the 1944 Chicago convention may have been ridiculous, but the voice of George Bender singing the Four Leaf Clover song was equally stupid and ugly. It did not make a vote for Senator Taft. Someone has to break through this silly tradition, for no better word describes it than silly. It costs party managers large fortunes and makes the convention itself ridiculous. It looks like tomfoolery, which it is. Or is it possible that this imbecile galavanting is necessary to keep the delegates from being bored?

Television will in time spoil all this, but it will never end until some candidate can get himself nominated without it. Senator Homer Ferguson broke one tradition when he seconded Vandenberg without making one of those enormous five-minute speeches that uniformly say nothing but go on everlastingly. He cut through that ice, but as his man was not nominated, it made little impression on the convention. Maybe some day someone will kill off the demonstration and ovation.

Also the committees on arrangement might pick a cool town for a late June convention, some place where there is a breeze and a little freshness of atmosphere. The heat at the Philadelphia show was unbearable and I can only pity the poor Democrats who will meet in the middle of July. Why not take such a convention to the Adirondacks or to the Yellowstone National Park? Why pick so hot spot? Is it to keep the delegates from thinking anything but the weather?

I am not griping. I am crusading against dopey traditions that hang on because there is insufficient courage to kill them. I am protesting against stupidity. I want to shame the party managers. I want to stimulate anger in the delegates. Maybe it cannot be done. Maybe they like to sweat while a young girl goes through disgraceful exhibitionism on the stage. Maybe they think that is the way to pick a president of the United States.

Diet and Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

I HAVE often said that in order to discover the true nature of disease, a physician needs the shrewdness of a detective and many of his methods.

Nowhere is this more necessary than in dealing with a certain type of severe chest pain due to irritation of the nerves at the point where they leave the spinal cord. This condition, known as radiculitis, causes pain so nearly identical with that of coronary thrombosis that it can fool even experienced heart specialists.

Blood Clot Forms

Coronary thrombosis is a disorder in which a blood clot forms in one of the arteries which supply the heart with blood and demands an entirely different treatment from radiculitis. Thus, it is of the greatest importance that the two disorders be distinguished.

The pain in radiculitis, like that of coronary thrombosis, is often limited to the area under the breast bone or under the heart, but it may pass into the left arm or into the neck. The distress may be severe or prolonged. Pallor and excessive sweating may occur during an attack. Some difficulty with the breathing may develop in some cases, with rapid, shallow breathing and the inability to take a deep breath.

Radiculitis may be caused by arthritis or inflammation of the joints of the upper part of the spine.

Neck May Be Stiff

If the upper part of the spine is affected, the neck may be stiff and painful. The muscles also are stiff and tender, and there may be difficulty in turning the head. Pain in the back part of the head and dizziness are also occasionally present.

The pain due to radiculitis usually can be quickly relieved. Manipulations or movements of the spine are helpful. The physician may prescribe exercise to correct posture.

Plane Wreckage Raised from Bay

NEW YORK, June 29—(AP)—A small, private plane which crashed and sank in Gravesend Bay off Brooklyn last night was raised today. Rescue workers found no bodies.

A diver who was lowered to the plane at first had reported one body in its cabin. No occupant was found, however, when the plane was pulled to the surface.

Police said the plane carried the registration number NC 93844. The Civil Aeronautics Administration said the number was issued for an Ercoupe, a single-engine ship

Plans for Hospital Approved by Dentists

Plans for Fayette County's projected Memorial Hospital today had the formal approval of the Fayette County Dental Society and the Hospital Board through assurance of cooperation of the dentists.

The hospital plans were gone over step by step by the members of the society at its Monday meeting at Brown's Drive-in Restaurant. Dr. W. E. Robinson presided at the meeting and George Pensyl, secretary of the Hospital Board, was a special guest.

Pensyl explained the plans for the dental facilities to be incorporated in the Health center of the hospital. He also went over the broader plans for the entire hospital.

The dentists joined in a general and exhaustive discussion of the plans for both the hospital and dental facilities. At the conclusion, the society, with a nearly complete attendance at the meeting, formally voted approval.

That was the official record of the meeting. Unofficially and individually, the dentists were warmly enthusiastic.

Dr. Ray J. Nauss and Dr. Fred Woollard were named to represent the society in future consultations and to work with the Hospital Board in all matters pertaining to the dental equipment.

Members of the board said after the meeting that the cooperation of the dentists, especially in the selection of dental equipment, would be of great value.

Dreaded Dutch Elm Disease is Still Rampant

Many American or white elm trees in Fayette and adjacent counties have fallen prey to the Dutch Elm disease which first appeared in this part of Ohio several years ago, after a shipment of diseased elm logs had been made over the old CH&D Railroad through this area.

Unless steps are taken to control the disease, every elm tree will, in all probability, die of the disease within a short period of years.

Control measures should include: Pruning and burning of all dead material from elms; removing of the bark before elm wood is stored or dumped, if the wood is not destroyed; piling of stored elm wood in a dry building or cellar; removing and burning promptly all elm trees killed by the disease.

There are three good clues for spotting the diseased trees, according to University of Massachusetts specialists. Evidence of woodpecker work is one. Where strips of bark have been removed from tree limbs it may indicate that woodpeckers are feeding on elm bark beetles, carriers of the Dutch elm disease. Shephard's Crooks are another sign of the disease. These crooks are twisted twigs branching out at the end of last season's growth. Third, lack of spring buds may indicate that the trees have been attacked by the disease.

Early detection of the disease will aid control measures, foresters say.

Filipino Movie Star Confesses Killings

MANILA, June 29—(AP)—Authorities said a Filipino film star confessed the knife slaying of his beautiful dark-haired leading lady, Lillian Velez, and her maid.

City Attorney Jose Fernandez said Nardine Anzures, 21-year-old hero of several of Miss Velez' screen thrillers, admitted plunging a hunting knife into her while they sat in her home in suburban Quezon City early Sunday.

The actress' four year-old daughter, Vivian, told police earlier she had peeked through a crack in her bedroom door about 2 A. M., and had seen the slaying. Police said the tot named Anzures, a close friend of the family, as the slayer.

Fernandez quoted Anzures as saying:

"I did it. I don't know what happened or how. I was under a spell I do funny things sometimes and everything just goes blank."

Miss Velez' husband, Jose Climaco, a night club entertainer and manager, said he knew of no motive for the slaying.

An Important Statement to Home Owners
Who Do Not Now Have Combination Windows and Doors

Here's Why Weather-Seal Leads In Window Engineering And Research

Fourteen years ago, Weather-Seal established the first scientific window research laboratory. We built windows of many types. Received permission to make dozens of complete home installations. Took draft tests, smoke tests, dirt checks. Designed, redesigned and perfected the Weather-Seal interlock construction which has never been equalled for permanent, tight fit and ease of operation.

We still have test windows of wood and other materials weathering on the east coast of Michigan. In several industrial communities with sulphur and other destructible chemicals in the air. In the salt heavy air of the Florida coast. In industrial laboratories Weather-Seal and competitive windows are undergoing severe accelerated weather and weathering tests... and tests of ease of operation.

In every test Weather-Seal windows and doors of California Coastal Redwood are far superior. That's why we can and do guarantee, in writing, every Weather-Seal installation for a lifetime.

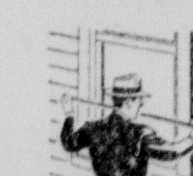

Harold G. Etling
President

Weather-Seal windows and doors are built of age-old California Coastal Redwood... will not warp, rot or shrink... stays beautiful with little care.

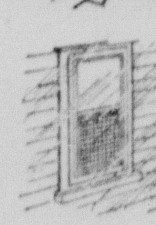

Genuine Interlock construction pioneered and perfected by Weather-Seal, guarantees an air-tight installation... keeps out dirt, dust and drafts.

Weather-Seal combination windows are custom-built to the dimensions of your particular home... are tailor-made to fit and stay fitted, for a lifetime.

With Weather-Seal, you change winter panes to summer screens in a jiffy. A few turns of an exclusive screw fastening and windows and screens come out easily.

Let it rain... let it pour! You'll always be sure of draft-free, rainproof ventilation the year around. You'll know the real meaning of finger-tip weather control.

All the rich, lustrous beauty of America's most magnificent wood is permanently yours with Weather-Seal. They'll dress up your home... add beauty and style.

Mrs. Larrimer Is Hostess To Church Society

The members of the Missionary Society of the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Anna Larrimer for the regular June meeting, and Mrs. Renna Porter was the assisting hostess.

The president, Mrs. John Glenn presided over the meeting and opened by reading Scripture from the first eight verses of Philippians, and this was followed with prayer by Mrs. Sarepta Short.

Mrs. Sue Larrimer read a letter in regard to the overseas work done by the society and stated that material for the continuation of the work will arrive at headquarters in the near future.

Mrs. Larrimer also was in charge of the following program during which Mrs. Glenn read Scripture from the second chapter of Acts, and Mrs. Adah Swope, an article, "Spanish Speaking Work In The United States," "Guatemala," was read by Mrs. Renna Porter, and "Mexican Railroad Workers" was given by Mrs. Bertha Porter. Mrs. Maude Howland next read the interesting article, "Menial School In New Mexico, Focal Point".

Those listed for prayer in the calendar was read by Mrs. Leafy Edwards who followed with prayer. "Why Didn't You Come To Us" was read by Mrs. Leafy Edwards in conclusion to the program and the meeting was closed with the usual benediction. During the social hour the hostesses served a tempting refreshment course.

Lovely Tea Honors Miss Guilbert

Miss Lucille Guilbert of Watertown, Conn. was honored with a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Jones on Sunday afternoon. Miss Guilbert is the fiancée of Mrs. Jones' son, Mr. Franklyn Ashley of Cheshire, Conn.

One hundred and fifty guests called between the hours of two and five, and were served punch and the accompanying delicacies from a beautifully appointed table, linen cloth covered, centered with a crystal watergarden holding a low arrangement of pink carnations blue delphiniums, and lacy fern, with tall white tapers in silver candelabra, on either end.

The punch bowl was presided over by Mr. Ashley's two sisters Mrs. Charles McCoy and Miss Marilyn Ashley and other assistants were Miss Laura Schadel of Columbus and Mrs. William A. Ashley of Dayton. Out of town guests included at the pleasant event were: Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Thomas of Delaware, Mr. and Mrs. E. Roy Rike, Jr., of Toledo, Mr. William Besuden, of Cincinnati, Miss Laura Schadel and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Waterhouse of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Thornton of Chillicothe, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Silver Tea Given By Jolly Maidens 4-H Club Members

The Jolly Maidens 4-H Club members entertained with a silver tea and a well given program at the White Oak Grove Church.

The first number was a song "I'm Looking Over A Four Leaf Clover," by the group and was followed by a group of piano solos by Roberta Theobald, Patty Miller and Patty Patton.

A trio of girls Roberta Theobald, Charlene Eakins, and Patty Miller contributed songs to conclude the program.

The guests were later invited to the church basement where the game of "Musical Chair" was played and prizes were awarded Mrs. Inez Stuckey, Mrs. Laura Patton, Mrs. Ethel Spangler, Mrs. Jessie Theobald, Miss Margaret Watson, Mrs. Lulu Roush, Mrs. Mada Eakins, Mrs. Nora Theobald, Mrs. Mary Smalley, Mrs. Virginia Dews, Mrs. Arlon Gilmer, Mrs. Irma Dowler and Mrs. Rita Jane Miller.

Mrs. Iree Knedler and Mrs. Lela Allen won hats as special prizes.

The event was brought to a close, with the serving of a tempting refreshment course.

Two Lovely Events Compiiment Dietz Sisters

Miss Vera Veal entertained with a beautifully appointed three course luncheon on Monday in the Colonial Room of the Washington Coffee Shop, when she complimented the Misses Lilli Belle and Katherine Dietz, of Muskogee, Oklahoma, and Mrs. C. H. Dietz of Sapulpa, Okla.

Other guests included were Miss Edith Gardner, Miss Cordelia McCafferty and Miss Lizzie Tway. Miss McCafferty also entertained with open house on Monday evening when several of their friends called. Miss Frances Bishop was the only out of town guests included. The Misses Dietz were residents of this city for many years when they resided at 720 South Main Street and have been welcomed most cordially on their first visit back in 34 years.

Picnic Dinner Honors Birthday

Mrs. Joseph Daugherty and son, Richard, complimented Mr. Daugherty with a picnic dinner on Sunday, complimenting him on his 25th birthday anniversary, at their home on the Bogus Road. The 35 guests enjoyed the delicious viands, which were served buffet style from one long table on the front lawn, and found their places informally at small tables for the congenial dinner hour.

The afternoon was spent in informal visiting during which the honor guest was presented with a number of lovely gifts. Those included in the pleasant event were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Daugherty,

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Daugherty, Mr. and Mrs. James Daugherty, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Universals Take Lead In Recreation League; DP&L Close Behind

The Universals today were back on top of the Recreation League standing after handing the Drake Producers from New Holland a 3 to 0 shutout Monday night at Wilson Field when the chips were down.

The lead of the defending champions, however, was just a hair's breadth over a tie with the up-and-coming DP&L crew, which beat the Hughey Legion team in a hit and run game by a score of 10 to 6 in the first half of the evening's double feature.

It was the leaky defense that spelled disaster for the Legionnaires. They committed eight errors compared to three misplays by the DP&L boys.

But, the slugging of the DP&L crew was a big help. The Reno brothers, Red and Jack, came through with a homer, a triple and double to account for three of the extra base blows of the game.

Both teams started out like whirlwinds. The DP&L had 7 runs—enough to win—in the first two innings. The Legion scored three in the second and three more in the third and were washed up after that.

The DP&L had lost but one game—to the New Hollanders—and that record was kept intact. The Hughey Legion had lost two when the game started and the third defeat just about put the ex-GI's out of the running for the first round title.

The Universals moved into the top spot the hard way when they blanked the New Hollanders in the second game of the evening.

Fast and clean play afield was the determining factor, for each team was held to but 4 hits.

Each team had lost but one game when they took the field. The second defeat dropped the Drake crew into third place. The victory gave the Universals a slight edge over the DP&L because it was their fifth win. The DP&L has won but four. Each has lost but one.

Indian Outfielder May Become Pitcher

CLEVELAND, June 29—(AP)—Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians believes Bob Kennedy, recently acquired from the Chicago White Sox, may be converted from an infielder-outfielder into a pitcher. Boudreau said last night he would try Kennedy as a pitcher July 12 when the tribe meets its Dayton farm club in an exhibition at Dayton.

Bill Veeck
SAYS...

Have you heard the one about the horse who wandered into the ball park during batting practice and asked if he could hit a few balls? The manager was slightly surprised but he waved the horse into the batter's box and the plug proceeded to slam booming drives into the bleachers.

Came the ninth inning of the game that afternoon... the home team was three runs down but had the bags loaded... with the pitcher coming up! In desperation, the manager sent our equine friend in to pinch hit and he promptly drove the first ball deep into left center. There was a tremendous roar from the crowd but much to everybody's consternation, the horse just stood at the plate while the manager screamed, "Run! Run!" to which the horse replied, "Look, Lou, if I could run I'd be at Belmont!"

Say, by the way, a couple of weeks ago in this column I told you fellows about the snappy "double play combination reservation" deal we have arranged with the Hotel Hollenden in Cleveland. The fans' response to it has been so terrific that I would like to repeat it again:

All of which is strictly a preface to a pitch I want to make about a brand new double play combination that the Indians have arranged for devotees of the Doubleday game.

We have worked out a deal with Bob Joyce, General Manager of the Hotel Hollenden (one of Cleveland's largest and best known inns) whereby baseball fans are guaranteed room reservations any weekend during the season—and at reduced rates. But that's not all... to save time and trouble, you can get your baseball tickets and hotel reservations by writing only ONE letter. Here's how it works:

All you have to do is fill in the two coupons below: one is for your baseball tickets, the second, for room reservations. Then make out your check to the CLEVELAND INDIANS for the BASEBALL TICKETS ONLY. Attach your check to BOTH coupons and mail the works to: BOB JOYCE, General Manager, Hotel Hollenden, Cleveland 14, Ohio.

Before you can say "Eddie Robinson," Bob will send you your tickets and a confirmation of your hotel reservation.

It's as simple as all that—and you save time, money and are assured of hotel reservations—not to mention swell seats at the game.

Incidentally, the Hollenden is only a "Texas Leaguer" from the Stadium. You can walk in it in eight minutes!

New Drug Hits Polio's Effects

Muscles Relaxed First Tests Reveal

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
ROCHESTER, N. Y., —(P)—A new drug, Myanesin, dramatically overcomes some crippling effects of infantile paralysis, cerebral palsy and other diseases, two scientists reported today.

It works by relaxing muscles that are twisted, rigid or shaking uncontrollably due to nerve disorders and permits normal or near-normal movement again. It does not help in paralysis or crippling where nerve pathways have been destroyed.

The findings are announced in the June 26 Journal of the American Medical Association by Dr. R. Plato Schwartz, associate professor of orthopedic surgery and Dr. Frank M. Berger, assistant professor of pediatrics, at the University of Rochester Medical School. Dr. Berger developed Myanesin, a synthetic drug derived from glycerol, two years ago in England.

In its new form, Myanesin can be taken as a cherry-flavored drink to mask its bitter taste, or in tablets.

In 84 of 90 patients, it diminished or eliminated spasms, rigidity and uncontrolled shaking of muscles, they said. Sometimes the relief came within half an hour or so. In others, improvement came only after days of taking the medicine.

Myanesin helped in nerve-muscle disorders that result from abnormal volleys of nerve impulses to certain muscles. It acts on the central nervous system and reduces the excessive volleys. But it isn't yet known just how or why the drug manages to do this.

Many victims of polio and cerebral palsy are crippled not by destruction of nerves, but by this twisting of muscles. Myanesin also has stopped some or all of the uncontrolled shaking in some cases of Parkinson's disease or shaking palsy, Drs. Schwartz and Berger said.

It also was found beneficial in certain cases of chronic rheumatism and arthritis where the trouble was due to muscle spasm. Similarly, it helped in patients who had muscle spasm or twitching due to certain kinds of injury or accidents.

The relaxation obtained with the drug sometimes makes it possible to retain improved muscle function so that the drug is no longer needed, they said. Other patients may need the help of the drug occasionally, or several times a day to control the muscle disorders. Repeated doses of the drug seem to build up a longer-lasting effect. It does not have any bad side effects, they said.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

WHEN Bigelow arrived with the furniture van, Mrs. Potts was indignant at the idea of having him stay at the lodge. "If he's only going to stay such a short time," she said to Andrew, "there's no reason on earth why Gloria shouldn't move in with me, and he can have her room. He can eat here, too," she added hurriedly. "My, we're going to miss you when you go. I know I will, and Gloria is going to be heart-broken. I only hope she doesn't start bothering you at your new house. If she does, you just shoo her home. ... You've been a great help with her, Andy. She was getting a little sassy before you came—seemed to think I was in my dotage, and nobody but a fourteen-year-old knew what was what these days. Well, you squashed that without even trying. She admired you so, she just naturally took to acting nice, and having more respect for older people, and using the manners I'd taught her, goodness knows, but she'd seemed to think it was a crime to use them before. Well," she sighed, "if the plumbing should go back on you, or you get sick and tired of your own cooking, you'll always be welcome here."

Andrew thought this was quite the nicest compliment he had ever had. He said, "Oh, I'll be around pestering you a good deal. I've got to learn how to cook, for one thing. I bought a Fanny Farmer cookbook the other day, but I don't know how much truth there is in this saying that anyone with intelligence can cook with a good cookbook. Maybe I'll find I don't have any intelligence!"

"Oh, go along!" Mrs. Potts laughed. "You'll learn, all right, but I don't think any man ever puts a meal together like a woman, or gets things to taste right."

Andrew laughed with her. "One thing sure—I'm not the man to disprove it!"

Bigelow moved into Gloria's room under protest. Strangely, Gloria herself did not seem to mind. Ali that distressed her was that Andrew was going to leave them. She hung about every free minute she had, her shadow—tall, lanky Ellery Emmons—with her.

When the van arrived, she was half mournful, half ecstatic. "Oh, Ellery," she would breathe, as a satiny mahogany highboy was carried into the house, or one of the men went by with a handsome leather-covered chair, "aren't Andy's things beautiful?" And then, with no transition, she would cry, "It's going to be terrible at home without him. We'll miss him so! It was so nice having a man around the house!"

Ellery would say nothing, but would move a little closer, as if to insinuate that he, too, was a man, and it might be nice having him around the house.

The two of them helped Andrew and Bigelow to get things placed. Little by little one Saturday afternoon the rooms began to take shape. The two cherry corner cupboards and the handsome cherry drop-leaf table in the dining room. The lyre-backed chairs with faded needlepoint seat covers. These had been in storage since before Andrew was born, for they were remnants of the household his mother and father had had briefly before the latter sailed for France. In the library two leather chairs, with a low coffee table between them, made a comfortable group, while two smaller chairs completed the room. The books, still resting in their packing cases, would finish the picture. The bedroom was charming with a four-poster and two matching chests of drawers with handsome mirrors above them. Chintz-covered chairs made it seem cozy.

And the living room—there Andrew was able to use some of the heavier pieces which had seemed so appropriate in the Delacourt house, but which he had feared would be overpoweringly large in the small rooms of the Wheeler place, with their low ceilings. In the converted barn, however, they were just right. The secretary and highboy, the grand piano, the wing-backed chairs and heavy Chinese lamps all took their place in the new room, while Gloria squealed with joy. Two large rugs covered most of the floor, and the fine brass fireplace set with its curved fender was set in place.

Andrew and Bigelow were tired that night, almost too tired to talk at the supper table, but Gloria was full of it all, and regaled her mother with a description composed almost entirely of italics. "It's perfect!" she cried. "It's—simply out of this world, Ma! Andy's got the most beautiful things! And he has a grand piano! And the books! You should see the books! There's millions of them!"

Andrew sighed. "That reminds me, I'd better tackle those books tomorrow, Biggy. Will you run in to town and get my draperies from Mrs. McClure? They won't all be done, of course, but we could get those hung that are. And, Mrs. Potts, I wonder if I could have your help again?"

"Why, of course, Andy," Mrs. Potts sat up straighter, and beamed at her prize boarder. "It's just occurred to me that I haven't any furnishings for the kitchen. And, to tell you the truth, I don't know what I should get. How many pots and pans, and what size, and how much kitchen cutlery, and things like that. I'm an absolute blank on a kitchen."

Mrs. Potts was delighted. But she was worried, too. "My goodness, hadn't you thought of those things at all, Andy? Furnishing a kitchen can come pretty high. It doesn't seem as if any one thing costs very much, but you have to have such a variety, and before you know it you can spend plenty."

"Well, all I ask you to remember is that I'll be doing very simple cooking for a long time to come. I won't need any fancy molds, or angel-cake pans, or things like that."

"Of course not! In fact, I'll be surprised if you do more than boil an egg the first week you're on your own."

"Help! If I thought that, I wouldn't get any kitchen furnishings at all—I'd just keep on eating here," Andrew cried.

"Oh, Andy, I wish you would!" Gloria breathed, and he added hastily:

"But I'll be too poor, so I'll just have to learn to eat boiled eggs and like them."

Andrew doubted if Mrs. Potts had had more fun in years than she had in buying those kitchen supplies. She dragged him from the one hardware store to the other. Some things she even insisted were "just as good" when bought in the ten-cent stores. "No sense paying twelve cents for something that Woolworth or Newberry has for ten," she would murmur, righteously, and pull Andrew after her down long counters full of shining utensils.

She wanted him to buy a stool, and a porcelain-topped table, but he objected. "No, I want a plain Windsor armchair for the kitchen," he protested, and she turned to him with her large eyes positively popping with horror.

"An armchair—in the kitchen?" she cried. "Whatever are you thinking of?"

"My comfort," he answered. "Goodness knows, you've said yourself that you spend a terrible amount of time in the kitchen. Why not spend it comfortably? I can peel potatoes just as well in an armchair as on a stool. And what's more, if I have to stay in the kitchen and watch something, I might as well have a book with me, and be comfortable reading it."

"Well, I never heard such—such—" Words failed Mrs. Potts. "Heresy," she supplied. "I know. But you wait and see. You'll be putting an armchair in your own kitchen one of these days."

"Never!" she vowed, but he only laughed.

"And as for a porcelain-topped table, I don't know. I'm afraid it will look too coldly gleaming white."

"Now, Andy, if you think you're going to have a plain wood table, just because it matches your paneling, you're crazy! In the first place, it takes a lot of scrubbing, and you have to use a bleach for it, and your hands will smell for hours afterward. And you'll get splinters in your palms, most likely. And—"

"You win," he said hastily. "I'll take the white-topped one. Come to think of it, the stove and refrigerator will be white, too, so I guess I can't help having the modern note."

"I should hope not," Mrs. Potts countered virtuously.

Jet Plane Center Cincinnati, Is Tip

CINCINNATI, June 29—(AP)—The Cincinnati Times-Star said it has learned that Cincinnati is expected to become the center in a new program of the U. S. armed forces to speed production of jet engines for airplanes.

The newspaper said it understood army and navy officials in Washington as saying that General Electric will take over the old Wright Aeronautical Corp. plant at Lockland and use it exclusively for jet output.

Wife Held in Death

CLEVELAND, June 29—(AP)—James Burns, 54, a laborer, was found stabbed to death in the kitchen of his home yesterday, police said. They were holding the victim's wife, Josephine, 47, for questioning.

Power Burns Fatal

DAYTON, June 29—(AP)—Lester Bellville, 35, died of burns last night after he came in contact with 6,500 volts on a power line of the Dayton Power & Light Co. plant at nearby Miamisburg.

Hill Proclaims Security Loan Week in City

Calls Upon Citizens To Buy Extra Bonds As Bar to Inflation

Calling upon residents of the city to "examine personal and family finances with the idea of buying as many bonds as possible," City Manager Winston W. Hill today had proclaimed the Security Loan campaign in Washington C. H.

Hill's proclamation urged a sign-up for systematic bond saving, and suggested that school children enter the savings programs.

The city manager called upon "all who can help sell bonds to others to offer their services to the local savings bond committee."

The committee is headed by Richard M. Rankin, Washington C. H. attorney. According to Rankin, all of Fayette County is included in the campaign to sell bonds.

Earlier, Governor Thomas J. Herbert proclaimed all this week as Security Loan Week, a "special time" in which to buy bonds.

The city manager's proclamation is as follows:

Whereas the prayer of every man and woman of good will in the world today is for peace and security and the peace of the world depends upon a strong and prepared United States of America, and whereas a sound and stable economy is essential to a strong America and this is the urgent concern of business, industry, labor and management, government and consumer alike, and whereas the soundness and stability of our economy depend in the end upon the productive effort of each citizen and the thrift of each individual and family, and whereas the savings bond program of the United States Treasury Department encourages thrift and regular saving, works against further price increases and builds up buying power for the future, and whereas the Security Loan campaign for United States savings bonds began in this community and across the nation on April 15 and runs until July 15, I, therefore, as City Manager of Washington C. H., Ohio, call upon all citizens to examine personal and family finances with the idea of buying as many extra bonds as possible during the Security Loan campaign. I urge all who can take advantage of the payroll savings plan where you work or the bond-a-month plan where you bank, to sign up for regular systematic bond saving. I commend the school savings program which implants the habit of thrift in our children. Finally, since the Security Loan campaign and the Savings Bond program depend upon the volunteer aid of public-spirited citizens, I call upon all who can help sell bonds to others to offer their services to the local Savings Bond Committee.

America's security is our security. Let us build it together. Winston W. Hill

Monday Hottest So Far This Year

Monday, with a peak temperature of 94 degrees, was the hottest day of the season to-date, and the reading was 3 above the 91 mark scored Sunday.

Rainfall in some areas early Monday night caused a drop in the temperature but at no time during the night did the mercury fall below 68 degrees.

At 8 A. M. Tuesday the reading was 81 degrees, indicating another day with high temperatures was in prospect. A year ago the high was 87 and low 66.

The high temperatures have resulted in slowing down hay harvest and other work on the farm, and speeding up the ripening of wheat.

Legion Juniors Practice Called

There still is a chance for Fayette County boys who like to play baseball to get on the American Legion Junior team.

That was the word from Coach Fred Pierson, as he announced another practice session for 4 P. M. Wednesday at Wilson Field.

"We've got a lot of boys out," Pierson said, then added "but this is such a wonderful opportunity for them, we don't want any to miss it."

Some, the coach continued, were unable to play because they have taken jobs for the summer. And farm boys, he pointed out, are kept pretty busy helping with the work at home.

County Courts

DIVORCE GRANTED

David Tubbs has been granted a decree of divorce in common pleas court, from Rosie Tubbs, and their child was awarded to the defendant. The decree was based on gross neglect of duty charges filed by the plaintiff.

WANTS DIVORCE

Jerelene Kneisley, filing suit in common pleas court against Cecil Kneisley, asks for divorce, custody of their two children, and other relief, including restraining order, which was issued, to prevent the defendant from selling or encumbering certain property in which the plaintiff claims an interest.

The parties were married here on March 14, 1943, the petition states, and the plaintiff charges extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty. R. M. Winegardner represents the plaintiff.

AWARDED DIVORCE

In the divorce action of James Herbert Perrill against Helen Perrill, which was transferred from the Fayette County Common Pleas Court to the Highland County Common Pleas Court, the defendant was Monday awarded a divorce on grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, upon her cross petition. The plaintiff's petition was dismissed.

A property agreement had been entered into between the parties, and costs of the case, including attorney fees, were assessed against the plaintiff.

Firemen Make Two Runs Early Tuesday

At 4:30 A. M. firemen were called to the Wm. Gardner home, in connection with his grocery. Paint and Delaware streets, to extinguish fire in a mattress, caused, it was stated, by Gardner smoking in bed.

It was necessary to use gas masks to enter the smoke filled room. A fog nozzle was used and the mattress later dumped out a window. Little damage resulted, and Gardner was not burned.

At 7:30 an alarm sent the firemen to the Bryant Restaurant, where fire had started in the stock rooms. Loss was a half dozen aprons. Origin of the fire was not known.

CROP Program Gets Under Way Here This Week

Chillicothe Minister To Head Program in Fayette County Area

Solicitations for gifts in kind from Ohio farmers for an Ohio Food train will begin Thursday it was announced in Columbus by Carl J. Landes, state director of the Christian Rural Overseas program (CROP), sponsors of the train.

Fayette County's supervisor for the CROP drive is Rev. Ralph E. Schluer of Chillicothe. He is in charge of the program for Pickaway, Franklin, Fayette, Ross and Fairfield Counties.

Coordinator for Clinton County area including Greene and Highland Counties, is Rev. Paul Bressler of Germantown. Madison County is in charge of Rev. Paul Becher of London.

The train will be assembled about the middle of August, according to Frank Farnsworth, state director of agriculture, who is heading that phase of the activity.

Landes, who has just completed a tour of the state during which he spoke at various CROP area meetings declared that enthusiasm for the project is high. He said he expected all solicitations would be completed by July 31. Each county will limit its campaign to one week, the exact time of the month being determined by the harvest season in that particular area.

Landes said that greatest emphasis is being placed on wheat and dairy products, although other gifts in kind will be acceptable.

Delaware County was one of the first to announce a definite program for launching a campaign. Throughout the county on Sunday, June 27 pastors will distribute pledge blanks on which members of their congregations may pledge gifts for the train. Agricultural groups in the county are cooperating.

Supervising the state-wide campaign are fourteen district CROP representatives. The activities of CROP are nation-wide, and the program is sponsored by Catholic Rural Life, Church World Service, and Lutheran World Relief.

Sunday Men's Day at Second Baptist Church

Sunday is men's day at the Second Baptist Church, and sessions will be held both forenoon and afternoon, starting with Sunday School at 9:30 A. M., with regular worship services following, during which the minister, Rev. T. W. Chavers will speak on "The Men of Yesterday and Today."

At 2:30 P. M. the Love Zion Baptist Male Chorus of Columbus, will open the session, and the Gospel Singers of Bloomingburg will also take part in the musical program. Short addresses are scheduled in addition to the sermon by Rev. M. B. Myers, pastor of Love Zion Baptist Church, Columbus.

1,779 Children On Playgrounds

Small Drop Noted in Daily Attendance

Daily attendance edged downward slightly on city playgrounds during the second week of the summer program. Fred Pierson, the recreation director announced.

Total attendance during the week amounted to 1,799, Pierson said, compared with 1,946 the first week.

This drop represented only an average decline of six children per day on each of the four playgrounds—Cherry Hill, Rose Avenue, Sunnyside and Eastside.

In addition, the facilities at Gardner Park are open for use of the youngsters during the day.

On Monday, 378 children were on the playgrounds; Tuesday, 352; Wednesday, 342; Thursday, 371; and Friday, 326. On Friday, 51 went to a swimming party at London.

Pierson said facilities are available for many more youngsters of all ages on the playgrounds for supervised play and handicrafts.

He added that tennis courts and horseshoe courts at Gardner Park are available for adult use. The horseshoe court lights may be turned on for any organization wishing to use the courts during the evening Pierson said.

Sign up for the Friday swimming party will be held this week at the Sunnyside and Eastside playgrounds.

Three Traffic Mishaps Probed

Sheriff Orland Hays had complaints of three traffic accidents which occurred Tuesday, and which he investigated.

At 5:30 P. M., a car driven by Frederick G. Volz, Jr., 28, New Holland, crashed into a truck driven by Clyde Carman, who had started to turn into his gateway on Route 35, near Chaffin School House.

Robert Hosler, 18, also of New Holland, who was with Volz, was painfully but not badly injured.

At 9:15 P. M. Col. G. E. Isaacs, of Alexandria, Va., headed west on U. S. 22 three miles east of this city, crashed into a trailer which was attached to a car owned by Thomas E. Noble, of New Holland, and which had been left in the road, with no lights, according to Sheriff Hays, when the car ran out of gas.

Col. Isaacs' car was damaged somewhat and the trailer also was damaged. The mishap was not reported to Sheriff Hays until Tuesday morning.

The third wreck was of a minor nature, Sheriff Hays reported.
